

Ministerial Assessment Fee Agreement (Addendum to Psychologist-Patient Services Agreement)

You should have read, understood, and signed the Psychologist-Patient Services Agreement form, which explains your rights as a client. If you have not done this, please read that form now and sign it, or ask me for clarifications before proceeding.

You should understand that the fee for the psychological evaluation with Dana A. Max, Psy.D. is $700.00, which amounts to approximately $60/hour, about half of Dr. Max's regular fee. This fee includes a clinical interview, mental status exam, interview with spouse/partner of client, objective personality measure (typically the Minnesota Multiphasic Personality Inventory - Second Edition), a projective personality measure (typically the Rorschach Inkblot Test), test analysis and interpretation, professional report, and interpretive session (50 minutes) with the client. Dr. Max may also utilize other assessment tools, such as a vocational interest inventory (typically the Strong's Interest Inventory), a personality type indicator (typically the Myer's Briggs Type Indicator) and/or another objective personality measure designed to measure healthy functioning (typically the California Personality Inventory). This fee does not include a client report or additional consultations with the client or other persons interested in the testing (see below for more details). You should understand that half of this fee is due at the time of the testing and half is payable at the interpretive session when the final professional report is completed. The fee is payable in the manner of cash, check or via credit card. You should understand that this fee applies regardless of the outcome of the testing, even if you should request a second opinion.

Additional Information Regarding Fees:

As a service to all clients, Dr. Max will do one, 20 minute in-person consultation with another professional or appropriate church personnel (Bishop, attorney, physician, discernment committee, etc.) at no charge to you. However, if further in-person consultations are necessary, you will be billed at the current session rate, which is $120.00 per hour. Furthermore, telephone calls to or from others directly related to your case will be billed on a prorated basis to the nearest 15 minutes, after the first 15 minutes. Telephone calls under 15 minutes will not be billed. Telephone calls from clients that exceed 15 minutes are also subject to the prorated billing procedure.

If you have any questions regarding this fee agreement and/or Dr. Max's policies, please feel free to discuss these issues with him.
